

Investigation Summary Report

Private Residence

Kenner, LA

HISTORY

For this investigation, the team headed to a private residence in Kenner, La. Members of the family reported hearing voices and experiencing the feeling of being watched. The youngest family member, age two, had also been pointing to empty areas of the house while repeating an unfamiliar name. These occurrences made the owners curious about what could be going on in their home.

We began by setting up four DVR/IR cameras throughout the home. We then proceeded by sending up a team of two to the second floor. Most of the activity that was reported was from the master bed and bath room. Almost instantly the team members, while in the master bed room, began feeling a cold spot. This activity was confirmed by a digital thermometer.

While doing an EMF sweep in the first floor living room, we all noticed extremely high EMF spikes. We asked our host to switch off her electricity at the circuit breaker, yet we still received the same results. One explanation to the unusual readings could be due to some previous wiring problems they experienced in that area of the house. Perhaps the increase in EMF energy due to the poorly-insulated wiring in that area could be creating a “fear cage” effect. As we have mentioned before, overexposure to natural EMF energy can cause symptoms such as paranoia, dizziness, and even hallucinations; all of which can be mistaken for paranormal activity.

After reviewing all of our pictures, video, and audio we came up empty handed. We have assured the family that if activity picks up and they feel they need our help again, we will be here for them. We are currently seeking religious assistance to offer to the homeowners, as the counseling will hopefully assist their uneasiness.
