

Investigation Summary Report

Destrehan Plantation Destrehan, Louisiana

HISTORY

Destrehan Plantation is an antebellum mansion located in southeast Louisiana, near the town of the same name, Destrehan. During the 19th century, the plantation was a major producer of indigo and then sugarcane.

EXPERIENCES

The tour guide and manager had several claims they shared with the team:

- Clocks going off that don't work
- Shutters opening and closing on their own
- A lady in white has been seen by several people

- A brush flying off a dresser by itself
- Hearing children playing around an old rocking horse
- Tour guide felt like being hugged while on the staircase
- The sound of heavy breathing in ear
- Several people feeling uncomfortable in areas of the mansion

Investigators Reports

Location: Destrehan Plantation

Date: June 18, 2022

Investigators: Melinda, Morgan and Ryan

Equipment used: digital voice recorders, camcorders, and cameras.

While doing the walkthrough we also took pictures. Our guide that works at the plantation filled us in on the history and claims. After the walkthrough we proceeded to investigate by breaking into groups.

Attached Files

EVP's:

- A child speaking
- A lady singing
- A male voice saying "viens vin" pronounced "vin wha" and meaning come see or come here.

CONCLUSION

Louisiana Spirits has pioneered so many reportedly active locations in the state. By not simply going off of haunted tales, we treat any location as the next potential active location. In some cases, we walk out empty-handed, other times we don't.

In regards to this location, we strongly feel activity is prevalent here and we believe that with the help of a follow-up investigation, we will be able to get more evidence!