HISTORY

This is a single-family residence in a neighborhood that dates to the 1960's. The home was owned and occupied by the client's mother until recently. Upon her move out of state, the owner's granddaughter moved in. Almost immediately she encountered a paranormal presence that was undoubtedly negative. She was subject to mental and physical attacks causing her to flee the home on numerous occasions. Her pet dog also exhibited fearful and strange behaviors. Other suspected spirits in the home, including one that she claims remains in the corner of the living room, were more benign in nature. Surveillance cameras installed in the house revealed dark mists moving in the house and poltergeist activity. The granddaughter showed us some of these videos and they were very compelling. A psychic medium was brought in who removed the negative spirit or spirits from the home. An oversight on her part did not remove all of the spirits in the home. The granddaughter has moved out of the home and her mother, the client, has since moved in. She reports no paranormal activity. The granddaughter still believes there are spirits in the home.

Conclusion

The investigators concluded after the investigation, that the activity reported at the residence, although very credible, was not noticeably active during the investigation. The cleansing by the medium, appears to have removed most of the problem. The possibility of spirits remaining in the home is still significant even though the client, the current resident, may not be sensitive enough to perceive them. After the investigation, the granddaughter was advised to try to bring the psychic medium back to the house to cleanse it completely.
